I. PURPOSE
The Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education (ACGME) charges an Annual Program Fee for all ACGME approved residency and fellowship programs. A New Program Application Fee is charged for any newly accredited programs.

II. POLICY
The current rates for the following fees can be obtained from the Financial Manager in the Graduate Medical Education office.

Annual Program Fee (established accredited programs)
New Program Application Fee (newly accredited programs)

III. PROCEDURE
A per resident/fellow charge is determined by dividing the total Annual Program Fee by the number of resident/fellow FTE. The total Annual Program fee is then distributed among all affiliated hospitals, University Hospital, and School of Medicine Departments based on the number of FTE funded by each. For residents/fellows funded by training grants, military, or other agencies not considered an affiliated hospital, the School of Medicine department training the resident/fellow is responsible. The GME office submits payment to the ACGME, then invoices the affiliated hospitals and charges the School of Medicine departments by journal entry.

New Program Application fees are charged to the School of Medicine department responsible for training the resident or fellow.