MOONLIGHTING POLICY

I. Purpose

Graduate medical education training is a rigorous full-time educational experience. It is important that residents have time for personal pursuits. Residents should not be diverted from their primary responsibilities of patient care and learning by engaging in extramural professional activities.

II. Policy

Residents should not work more than 80 hours a week, when averaged over a four week period. Moonlighting by residents will not be allowed by the University of Utah Department of Radiation Oncology residency.
