

Fellow Description

The Academy of Health Science Educators is a service program for exceptional educators. Fellows are recognized as outstanding educators in their field and advocate for excellent education in their departments, colleges, and the larger University of Utah Health. Fellows will join an Academy committee and be an active participant in the Academy's development and activities. It is generally expected that, on average, fellows will provide an hour of service each month.

Participation may include, but is not limited to:

- Leading one Academy-sponsored workshop for members of the University of Utah Health community.
- Serving as an educational mentor to faculty, fellows, post-docs, residents, and/or graduate and professional students.
- Serving as an internal reviewer for Utah's Academy or an external reviewer for another institution's Academy membership application.

By maintaining an active contribution to the Academy, Fellows will be instrumental in developing an outstanding educational reputation for University of Utah Health. Fellows will begin their membership in the Academy by attending the Induction Ceremony in April 2021. Fellows serve a renewable five-year term. Application and acceptance into AHSE is a rigorous process. Each application is internally and externally peer-reviewed by distinguished educators.

Fellow Eligibility

1. Must be a faculty member of University of Utah Health for at least two consecutive years by the start of the program. Eligible faculty must be appointed on the Tenure-line or Career-line. Applicants must be at an Assistant Professor or higher rank. There is no limit on how many faculty members can apply from each college, school, department, or division. Adjunct faculty, Instructors, and Visiting faculty are not eligible.
2. Be engaged in a community of educators and demonstrate willingness and interest in participating in the activities of the Academy of Health Science Educators.
3. Must demonstrate excellence in two categories of the "Areas of Excellence in Health Science Education" Criterion-based Matrix. Only two categories will be reviewed; additional categories will not be considered. Only health science education experience (from the U of Utah and external institutions) will be considered when reviewing this application.
