Virtual Pediatrics Elective: Anti-Racism, Clinical Excellence, and Wellness

September 14-18, 2020

Department of Pediatrics

Details:

The University of Utah Pediatrics Program invites you to join us for a one-week virtual elective* to learn about our program and to explore our anti-racism, inclusion, and diversity efforts.

This week-long virtual experience will expose students to life in Utah through participation in resident academic coursework and through discussions with residents and faculty. We also look forward to learning together in group discussions on wellness, identity, and anti-racism.

* Not available for credit

Who Should Apply:

Fourth year students who self-identify as a minority underrepresented in medicine and students deeply passionate about creating an inclusive environment are invited to apply.

Here at the University of Utah, we value diversity in our patient population, our residency, and our faculty. We look forward to sharing the exciting anti-racism, diversity, equity, and inclusion work that we have developed.

Objectives:

1. Gain exposure to our academic experience.
2. Explore Antiracism, Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion initiatives
3. Meet with Pediatric Mentors
4. Learn about living in Utah and meet faculty, residents, and medical students
