“Amidst Tragedy, A Frameshift: Evolving Policy Initiatives to Address Prescription Opioid Recipients”

Stefan Kertesz, MD, MSc

University of Alabama, Veterans Health Administration

By the end of the session participants will be able to:

- Participants will be able to describe contributory forces to the present state of the US opioid crisis.
- Participants will be able to describe prescription control as a response to the opioid crisis, including favorable and unfavorable effects that result.
- Participants will be able to articulate a policy shift represented in recent actions (2019) by FDA, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and individual states based on re-appraisal of policy implementation in the opioid crisis.
- Participants will be able to describe how distinctions between clinical practice improvement and health service implementation sometimes result in harm to patients
